THE SINGER NEW FAMILY
SEWING MACHINE.

THE superior merits of the "Singer" Machines over all others, for either FAMILY use or MANUFACTURING PURPOSES, are so well established and so generally admitted, that an enumeration of their relative excellencies is no longer considered necessary.

THE LETTER "A" FAMILY MACHINE,

hitherto manufactured by this Company, has gained and maintained the world over, and for years past, an unparalleled reputation and sale. But notwithstanding the excellence of this Machine, we have now to announce that it has been superseded by our which has been over two years in preparation, and which has been brought to perfection regardless of TIME, LABOR or EXPENSE, and is now confidently presented to the public as incomparably the BEST SEWING MACHINE IN EXISTENCE.

The machine in question is SIMPLE, COMPACT, DURABLE and BEAUTIFUL. It is QUIET, LIGHT RUNNING, and CAPABLE OF PERFORMING A RANGE AND VARIETY OF WORK never before attempted upon a single machine—using either silk, twist, linen or cotton thread, and sewing with equal facility the VERY FINEST and COARSEST materials and anything between the two extremes, in the most beautiful and substantial manner. Its attachments for hemming, braiding, cording, tucking, quilting, felling, trimming, binding, etc., are novel and practical, and have been invented and adjusted especially for this machine.

CHARLES HALE,
SOLE AGENT,

General Grant Cook Stove,
The only Stove in market constructed upon scientific principles.
We feel assured in calling the attention of the public to this Stove, that we have a Stove superior to anything in the market.
A large class of diseases arise from the poisonous gases and vapors caloraing our food during the baking process and infecting the atmosphere of the room.
We have met this demand by furnishing a Stove with an Oven into which there is a Constant Flow of Fresh Heated Air,
Combining with and carrying those gases and vapors up the chimney.

CANCERS CAN BE CURED!
DR. L. CHASE,
(LATE OF PORTLAND),
THE CELEBRATED
INDIANCEPATHY, CANCER & HUMOR
DOCTOR,
HAVING purchased the residence of H. A. Wood, 54 Hammond Street, Bangor, Maine, would be happy to be consulted by all who are afflicted with Cancers, Cancer Humors, Tumors, Scrofula, Leprosy, Salt Rheum, Fits, Neuralgia, Bronchial Affections, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Sick Headache, Liver Diseases, Female Weakness, Piles, Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, Diseases of the Kidneys, Stiff Joints, Gravel, Diabetes, &c., &c.
DR. CHASE has practiced in his profession for sixteen years, and in that time has spent two years in Florida and Cuba, for the purpose of gaining a correct knowledge of the most efficient remedies used by the various tribes of Indians of that country, and by great expense has gained many valuable secrets which have heretofore been unknown to the world.
In Cancer he claims superiority over all other Physicians of the age, for he never fails to perform a cure when taken in a proper stage.
His mode of curing Cancers is by the application of a plaster, which is strictly vegetable and will have no effect upon the healthy flesh; and in no case uses a knife, as does Dr. Crehore, of Boston.
He also boldly asserts that he can tell every individual their disease and location of their pains, and describe their feelings in almost every case, more minutely than they can possibly themselves.
Dr. Chase is not a Clairvoyant, but conducts his examinations on a strictly scientific principle, and will challenge any professed medium for a test examination.
Office hours from 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Examinations free. Office at residence No. 54 Hammond Street.

NEW YORK
LIFE
INSURANCE COMPY.
Which is the Best Company to Insure in?
THE Massachusetts Commissioners, in presenting their Eleventh Annual Report to the Legislature of that State, say, "More than a million of persons belonging to the cream of our population are directly interested in this question. In no State is the ground better canvassed, and the character of the Companies more fully understood, than in Massachusetts. Nowhere are the Commissioners' reports so freely distributed and closely scrutinized."
The NEW BUSINESS of the four leading Companies in the city of Boston for 1864 was as follows:

New York Life, N.Y.,	$1,232,600
Mutual Life,	830,500
Mutual Benefit, N.J.,	256,500
Connecticut Mutual, Ct.,	174,350

TELEGRAPHIC.

Despatches to the Evening Times.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.

The preparation of the President's message and the reports of several heads of departments and chiefs of the several bureaus are in a state of greater forwardness than ever heretofore previous to the session of Congress. Some of them are partly in print and others are nearly ready for the printer. The probability is that the press will be furnished with copies of the message in advance of its delivery.

Workmen are engaged in preparing the old fair building in Philadelphia avenue for the banquet to be given to the republican members of Congress on Saturday next.

PORTLAND, Nov. 27.

The steamship Belgian left Liverpool at 2:30 on the afternoon of the 15th and Londonderry 16th, and arrived at Portland at 1:30 this morning.

The London subscription list for the Quebec sufferers exceed 15,000 pounds sterling.

The Daily News city article says the committee of confederate bond holders state that they are actively engaged in bringing their claims to the attention of the government, against or in common with those of the American government in relation to the Alabama and other claims.

The great meteoric shower predicted by the astronomers took place in England on the morning of the 14th. The estimates of the total number seen reach 7000 or 8000.

FRANCE.

It is stated that the Emperor's health is now excellent.

A levy has been ordered for the navy to fill up the places of sailors on furloughs and to form the crews of the transports which are to bring the army home from Mexico.

ITALY.

Victor Emmanuel was making a tour of the Venitian provinces and was received with great enthusiasm at Redine.

The Italian Parliament will assemble about the 11th of December.

It is asserted that immediately on the French troops leaving Rome the people of Roman territory will proceed to Plebiscote and declare their desire for annexation to the Kingdom of Italy under Victor Emmanuel.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.

Judge Sutherland, of the Supreme Court, has decided that the case of the man who was refused register on the supposition that he was colored, was one for a jury to decide as to how much African blood is necessary to determine whether a man is colored or not. The case will therefore be tried by a jury.

LONDON, England, Nov. 26.

A telegram from Antwerp reports the market for petroleum inactive at 58f. o 68f. per 100 kilos, showing a decline since the last report of 1 a 2f.

LONDON, Nov. 26.

There is a firmer tone observable in the market for United States 5-20 bonds this morning, and business has been done for cash at about 70½ a 71, the latter quotation being the one now current. American Railways are now lower.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 26.

A special despatch to the Louisville Journal says three robbers were taken from Lebanon jail, Saturday night by a mob and hanged.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.

The steamship Scotia from Liverpool 17th via Queenstown 18th has arrived.

The London Morning Herald advocates the consideration of the pending question of the pending question between the United States and Great Britain, even by arbitration if necessary.

The London Times says Her Majesty's government contemplates empowering a commission to enquire into the operation of the neutrality laws and to report upon the possibility of amending them so as to bring them into more complete conformity with international obligations.

This inquiring will not preclude future steps with regard to the adjustment of the Alabama claims, which are still under consideration by the government and must be entered upon their own merits.

Much damage had been done by the floods in Lancastershire and Yorkshire.

The London subscription list for the Quebec sufferers had reached £1700.

At the sitting of the Saxon Chamber of Deputies at Dresden, on the 16th, the State minister declared in the most positive manner, that Saxony had concluded no alliance with Austria, either before or during the war. The minister added that Saxony had faithfully observed the promise to that effect by Baron Von Benst.

Advices from Paraguay state that the defeat of the allies at Curupaity had caused a complete disunion among the leaders of the alliance.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.

The World has the following specials—

London, Nov. 26. A letter published in the Daily News to-day says the government has voluntarily re-opened the case of the privateer Alabama. Mr. Seward, in behalf of the American government, demanded a settlement of the claims for damages of that vessel some two months ago.

Liverpool, Nov. 26. Good styles of middling upland have been sold in this market at 14½d, but the average lists are obtainable to-day at 14¼d with estimated sales of 11,000 bales.

Manchester accounts show little change for the better and short time if now almost universal.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.

The money market is easier. Balances are steadily accumulating with the banks, and more freely offered. Good borrowers supply their wants at 6 per cent. on stock collaterals, though some business is done at 7 per cent, and occasionally at 5 per cent. on Government discounts. Prime names are 7@7 per cent.

Gold has taken an upward turn. A report of complications between the United States and France in regard to Mexico has been freely used.

Foreign Exchange is less active. Governments are more in demand, especially old 5-20s.

The Merchants' National Bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.

Ex-rebel Gen'l Edward Johnson, having been recently pardoned by the President, today called upon Treasurer Spinner for the payment of a check for three or four hundred dollars, due to him on settlement as a Major in the U. S. Army, which the Treasurer refused to pay.

Items in General.

Judge Alexander Walker of New Orleans has gained a verdict against Mrs. Acklin for $25,000, for services performed in saving her a million dollars' worth of cotton during the war. Gen. Polk ordered the cotton burned. Judge Walker, acting for Mrs. Acklin, persuaded Gen. Polk to revoke the order, which he did, and the widow sold 2800 bales at the highest figures. She offered only five hundred dollars for the service.

FASTING INSTEAD OF THANKSGIVING.—The Governors of Georgia and Alabama have very appropriately appointed the National Thanksgiving day as a day of Fasting and Prayer.

Among the junk brought to a dealer in Fredericksburg last week was a leaden star formed by two bullets, moving with the same velocity and momentum, but from directly opposite point, impinging against each other.

The whole merchant fleet of Prussia before the war consisted of 1665 ships of all dimensions, the greater number of small tonnage, employed in the coasting trade. At the present moment no less that 10,202 vessels sail under the Prussian flag or Prussian protection.

An editor thus logically nudges his delinquent subscribers: "We don't want money desperately bad; but our creditors do, and no doubt owe you. If you pay us, we'll pay them, and they'll pay you."

The artesian well in the stock-yards in Chicago has reached a depth of one thousand and fifty feet, and is now flowing at the rate of sixty thousand gallons per day.

On Friday a number of persons enjoyed the rare spectacle of six water spouts at the mouth of the St. Charles river, at its junction with the St. Lawrence. The rain fell heavily, and the wind was strong at the time, conditions peculiar to this phenomenon.

The latest swindle in New York is for a well dressed man to call at a private residence during the absence of the head of the family, leave a dozen bottles of so-called mineral water, and collect four dollars. The plan was successful in a number of cases.

—The famine in India is almost ended but by the time it is completely stayed it is estimated that three fourths of the laboring population and half the lower class of agriculturists will have perished.

Two hundred and forty thousand meteors are computed by Arago to have been visible above the horizon of Boston on the morning of the 13th of November, 1833.

A charge of less than an ounce of nitro glycerine rent to fragments a block of wrought iron weighing 300 pounds.

The geological character of the rock on which drunkards split is said to be quartz. The only blusterer from whom a brave man will take a blow is the wind.

WHO WAS ANEKE JANS? Aneke Jans whose heirs lay claim to a large part of the estate of Trinity church, and who lived in New York when it was in possession of the Dutch, is said to have belonged to the royal family, and to have obtained a grant from the King of Holland of a tract of land on the west side of the city of New York, extending from what is known as Warren St. to Christopher St. This was probably about the beginning of the seventeenth century.

It is held, by the heirs of this lady, that when New York fell into English hands, the above grant was confirmed, and that a lease of the lands covered by it was made to Trinity church. After this lease had expired, it is contended that Trinity continued to hold the lands in question, and that that continuance in possession was an illegal one.

THE ASSASSINATION OF DR. ROBINSON. The investigation of the circumstances of the murder of Dr. Robinson, at Salt Lake, failed to discover any fact tending to throw suspicion on any individual as the murderer and the jury returned a verdict of death at the hands of some person or persons unknown. The assassins covered their tracks, and shielded by the Mormon leaders, at whose bidding they acted, will doubtless escape detention.

Among the things which "ought to have been done" the Boston Journal says:

In the first place, at the close of the war, Jeff. Davis ought to have been tried by a military tribunal and—as he would have been—condemned and executed. That would have disposed of one outstanding question, and disposed of it rightly.

In conclusion the Journal says:

The day for the consummation at one stroke of these grand measures is past. But while the sense of the mistake thus committed in the moment of victory is daily increasing upon the public mind, the substantial ends to have been obtained are still before us. Justice is yet to be dealt out to Jeff. Davis; all civil and political distinctions of caste and color at the South are yet to be obliterated; and the freedman is to be endowed with the privilege of becoming a land owner. The method and policies have changed; but may we never suffer any opportunity for advancing the unchanged cause to slip by us unimproved again!

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1866.

THE ADMINISTRATION AND MEXICO. We take the following from a recent number of the Tribune:

According to a series of articles in the Herald from the 3d to the 12th of November, the Emperor recently invited to Biarritz Mr. Bigelow and the new French Minister for Foreign Affairs, the Marquis de Moustier, and arranged with them the terms of a treaty to be made between the United States, France and Mexico, which the Herald pronounces to be "a fixed fact." We are to receive, it is said, by this treaty negotiated in France, Lower California, 750 miles long, and from 80 to 120 miles wide, with an area of nearly 200,000 square miles, and a population of mixed breed—Indians, negroes and whites—of probably 18,000. This grant will "be confirmed as acceptable by Napoleon." The settlement is said to contemplate the payment of the indemnity claims, which were the cause of the original armed coalition of France, England and Spain. The United States will stand security for these indemnities, and will furnish the Republic of Mexico the funds to meet them.

The first of these articles alludes to the treaty as being made in France, and with the Empire of Mexico, the latter, written after the rumor of Maximilian's return to France, refers to the Republic of Mexico, but the part the United States is to play, the money France is to receive, the territory that Mexico is to lose, are the same in both cases, and outside rumor adds another article to this treaty, providing for the payment of Mexican bonds held by American citizens, which may, perhaps, account for the fact that Mexican bonds are being cautiously offered in Wall street at a low figure, with the quiet intimation that they are likely to prove "a big thing."

How far there is truth in these rumors, or in that which declares that Mr. Campbell and Gen. Sherman are in some sort to recognize the French authority in Mexico by accepting the country from the hands of Gen. Castelneau, the future will determine, but with the suggestion already made more than a year since by Mr. Bigelow, for the recognition of Maximilian, from which we narrowly escaped, and with a sad recollection of the Texan swindle, so successfully perpetrated to the amount of $10,000,000, and of the Texan bonds that were then distributed in advance wherever it was supposed they could directly or indirectly influence a vote, it is well that the American people should be aware of the plot now on foot to make the United States an accomplice in a scheme more infamous than the partition of Poland.

This is one view of the Mexican scheming now under way at Washington. Another, and perhaps more probable one, is that our administration is to interfere against France and in favor of one of the Mexican factions in order to "annex" another slice of Mexico, and get glory thereby as well as by a possible popular war with France.

We have little doubt that President Johnson and a portion of his Cabinet are looking with hopeful eyes at the Mexican imbroglio for something to turn up which the administration may be able to wrest to its own advantage, and thereby obtain popularity enough to cover the wretched mistake and failure which Mr Johnson has made in his reconstruction "policy." But we doubt if a war with France can be coaxed out of the Mexican question. Not if Louis Napoleon knows himself. He will sacrifice not only Maximilian, but "all his wife's relations" if necessary, rather than risk a brush with Uncle Sam in the full flush of his recent victory over rebellion. As to the other branch of this proposed "popular" policy touching Mexico,—the acquisition of more Mexican territory, viz, Lower California, we doubt if the American people can be brought to condone the political offences of President Johnson by any unjust or improper measures on his part for obtaining a neighbor's property—such as taking advantage of any quarrel which may be going on in that neighbor's family and siding with one faction against the other on condition of having a large slice of the family property set off to us.—That is not exactly the present tendency of the American mind, if we are capable of judging. Justice to all—to our neighbors as well as to ourselves—is inscribed high on our new political banner, and the principle cannot be violated with impunity either by the Republican party or by the nation at large. We may possibly obtain a title to the California peninsula in an honorable and just manner—in which case there will be no objection on the part of the Republicans—but we ought never to do it by taking up with one Mexican faction, and bullying or subduing the others. If the Mexican people generally are willing to part with Lower California, and it can be obtained honorably and on favorable terms, we have no doubt our people will be willing to give a proper consideration for it—not, however, by extending a "protectorate" to any one Mexican faction against another. The whole matter will doubtless be properly considered by Congress—but Mr. Johnson and his Cabinet will not be allowed to get up a war upon the matter for their own private benefit.

NOT NERVE ENOUGH FOR IT. The Charleston Daily News, which was one of the Southern papers that advised President Johnson to execute a coup d'etat against Congress, now considers that he is not the man of nerve for that experiment, after all. After quoting from the N. Y. Times a prediction that Mr. Johnson will content himself with a simple protest against the "radical" legislation of Congress, while executing the same, the News says in an article of the 19th:

A coup de etat now executed by the President would necessarily be with force, and the probabilities of its success are less than they would have been. At the meeting of the last Congress the President was master of the situation. He was popular in every section of the country; he was commander-in-chief of the army, with every reasonable assurance of his ability to exercise the powers of that office; his policy was simple and feasible. The Republicans had not then organized their forces, and an use of power tendered at that time by the President would doubtless have resulted in his favor. That time has passed, and though the President, since the adjournment of Congress, has been instant to set it at defiance; tho' he has characterised it as a fiction, has made appointments in indulgence of opposition to the wishes of its leaders, and in word and act has distinctly announced the purpose to "run" the government upon the track provided for it by the Constitution, whatever might be the consequences—it is yet not certain that he meant all that might have been implied; that it was more than a passive resistance he intended.

Assuming this to be the fact, it is a practical abandonment of the issue. Congress will have the majority to pass what acts they please, and the further majority to make those acts consistent with the Constitution. With more than two-thirds of either House, there is no form of law by which that party can be counteracted; its volitions are the Constitution. They have in fact, no hesitation in saying that they will have a Constitution to suit themselves, and for the development of this the Congress will be the ready and convenient instrument, and if the President shall content himself with a protest against such acts—which, however, he shall afterwards proceed to execute, with all the physical power placed by the present Constitution in his hands—there will be nothing more required to render the revolution complete. The Radical party will be possessed of the Government, in consistence with such a course, as perfectly as it one of the most Radical members of that organization, were at the head of it. The acceptance of that physical issue which, a year ago, we declared to be impending—the achievement of that coup d'etat—is a stroke of genius. It comes only of an aptitude for the exigencies of political experience not accorded to any man in any age, and we had no right to suppose, therefore, that for such an extraordinary act the President was prepared or was competent. But we cannot but accept, with great reluctance, the result. It imports an exposure to Radical action which must necessarily be disastrous, and to us a peculiar and special share of the calamities to result from the impending political dissolution.

We trust our southern friends will possess their souls in patience. There will be no "political dissolution." Everything will go along smoothly under this awful "radical" rule. The quondam rebels can stay out of Congress as long as they please, and they can come in when they please to comply with the conditions—not hard by any means.

THE CHICAGO TUNNEL. The great lake tunnel is all but completed, two feet of earth remaining to be excavated. The board of public works will break through this to-morrow. It is a mighty feat of engineering skill. Dull and Gowan, of Harrisburg, Pa., took the contract for building it at $3,100,139, and ground was broke March 17, 1865, and the work has steadily advanced to completion. Its capacity is such that it will furnish a million of people fifty seven gallons of water each per diem. Much remains to be done before the water comes through, in the way of erecting elevating engines, building, putting down pipes, &c. Next spring the work will be completed.

The Supreme Court of the State of Connecticut has recently adjudicated a case, which has some peculiar features. Mr and Mrs Enson, husband and wife, were killed in a railroad accident at Berlin—Mrs Enson surviving her husband but a few hours. The heirs of both sued the company, and in each case received $1000 damages. The question just decided was whether the damages, in the case of Mr. Enson, should go to his heirs or those of his wife. The Supreme Court decided that the latter must have the entire $8000.

A monster gun, the third ever made of such ponderous size, has just been finished at Pittsburg, Penn. Its weight is 115,200 pounds, its length 243 inches, its diameter 64 inches, its bore 20 inches wide and 210 inches long, and it shoots a ball that weighs 1000 pounds, and requires 80 pounds of powder to load it. The cost of such guns is $30,000 a piece, and the lucky contractor has before him the job of making three more.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL. Some weeks since Judge Magruder of the Circuit Court of Anne Arundel county, Md., refused to receive the evidence of a colored woman, and declared the Civil Rights bill unconstitutional. On Saturday he was taken before a U S Commissioner on the charge of violating the Civil Rights bill, and gave bonds to await the action of the U S Grand Jury in December. It is intended to make the case a test one and carry it before the U. S Supreme Court.

On account of the prevailing corruption in the management of municipal affairs in New York, the new Legislature will inaugurate a regular war against the present city organization, so as to utterly deprive the notorious ring of every source of plunder or peculation. Special commissions, composed of incorrupt citizens, for the piers, wharves, markets and railroads are already hinted at.

The bill making habitual drunkenness a sufficient cause of divorce, has passed the Vermont Legislature—thirteen to eleven—with an amendment, requiring that the drunkenness must be of two years duration previous to the finding of the libel.

WILKES BOOTH. The Vicksburg (Miss.) Times, after copying a rumor which ran the rounds of the press, to the effect that J Wilkes Booth was really in the land of the living, makes the following remarks:

"The above, with many other statements, bearing upon their faces equally strong evidence that John Wilkes Booth was not killed, have been going the rounds of the press, and without any desire to add another sensation paragraph to the already long list on this subject, we make the following statement: There is a gentleman residing within a day's travel of Vicksburg (a personal friend of one of the editors of this paper) who, if he has not shaved his moustache very recently, bears a remarkable resemblance to the local photographs of Booth, and long after the reported death of this actor, this man was arrested in Louisville, Ky., for Booth, and was compelled to undergo a strict examination and establish his identity before he was released. The question is a very pertinent one; Why were detectives in search of the man who killed Mr. Lincoln long after that man was reported dead?"

THE ORIGINAL OIL MAN OF CANADA.—The Halifax (N. S.) Recorder tells the following story of this individual:

About ten years ago a man named Pratt who possessed in a remarkable degree the roving disposition, happened to pass through the township of Enniskillen, and seeing the gum beds as they were termed, shrewdly guessed that there was something good to be found there. He accordingly bought seventy acres of land in which is now the centre of the oil districts, and after having the gum analyzed at Hamilton, left the country. He went to the silver mines of Mexico, where no doubt he found adventures enough to satisfy even his spirit, and on the breaking out of the late war he took up arms on the side of the South, and fought the Yankees for four years. In the meantime nothing was heard from him and on the discovery of oil in Enniskillen his estate was administrated and reverted back to the Crown. About three weeks ago, however, the rover stepped into a large oil establishment, announced himself the original old Pratt, and politely requested the soi-disant proprietors to clear out. Utterly confounded, these gentlemen handed over $100,000 to quiet the title, and Mr Pratt set off for Ottawa, where he asked the Commissioner of Crown Lands by what authority his land was taken from him and given to others. The answer was in so far satisfactory that he set off in high glee, and when the writer met him on the cars, was on his way to oil spring to give a number of wealthy trespassers, as he considers them, particularly scissors. He expects to realize some two hundred thousand dollars in gold from the transaction.

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILL.
A Certain Cure for Diseased Liver and the many Dangerous Maladies which are caused by a morbid condition of that organ.
To give the public a clear understanding of the mode in which SCHENCK'S Mandrake Pills produce those wonderful effects which are attested by thousands of reliable witnesses, we present a brief and its functions which will make the operation of this popular medicine perceptible to every man's understanding.
DESCRIPTION OF THE HUMAN LIVER
The liver is supplied with blood vessels nerves and absorbents. One of the obvious uses is to secrete and prepare the bile. It likewise filters the blood and separates that fluid from all impurities. How indispensably necessary to health is the proper performance of this function! If the liver is diseased, it cannot purify the blood, and if that is sent back through the lungs brain and other parts in a morbid condition, it must cause jaundice, biliousness, obstruction of the kidneys, gravel, and many other complaints more or less painful and dangerous, but the least of them quite enough to make a man sick and uncomfortable, and unfit for the performance of any of the duties of life. This unhealthy state of the system very often ends in pulmonary consumption.
The circulation of the blood is conducted in this manner—The heart sends the vital current down through the arteries, it passes through the flesh, taking up all impurities in its progress then the stream of blood flows backward through the veins, and passes to the liver to be purified. It is impossible to cure consumption, scrofula, or scarcely any other kind of ulceration while that important organ, the liver, is diseased. It is for that reason that "regular physicians" rarely cure consumption.—They usually begin their treatment with the use of some cough medicine, the basis of which is morphia or opium in some shape, which locks up the liver instead of relaxing the secretions, giving a tone to the stomach, and producing a healthy flow of bile. Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills, will strengthen the system, purify the blood, and ripen and heal ulceration the lungs.
A volume would be required, to give a brief account of the remarkable cures performed by Dr. Schenck's medicines, viz Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills—all of which are accompanied by full directions for the use of them.
DR SCHENCK will be professionally at his rooms every week, 32 Bond street, New York, and 35 Hanover street, Boston, from 9 A. M. until 3 P. M. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with the Respirometer the charge is five (5) dollars. His medicines are for sale by all druggists and dealers. Also a full supply at all times at his rooms. Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic, each $1 50 per bottle, or $7 50 the half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents per box. GEO. REASONS FOR INSURING IN THE MUTUAL Life Insurance Co.

1st. Its age. It is the oldest purely Mutual Life Insurance Company in this country, having begun business before any other such Company.

Largest Assets.
2d. Its Assets are much the largest of any Life Insurance Company in this country. Its cash assets January 1st, 1866 were $14 338,551 51, being $4 160 022 12, more than the gross assets of any other Company, and being $7 093 923 43, more than the cash assets of any other Life Insurance Company in this country. (See Report of Hon Wm Barnes, Superintendent of the Insurance Department of the State of New York, for 1866.)

Safest Investments.
3d. Its assets are invested in the safest and best of securities.

Largest Surplus.
4th. Its surplus, above its liabilities is the largest of any American Life Insurance Company. (See aforesaid State Report for 1866 or any other year.) Surplus January 1st 1866, $3,531,038 67.

Largest Amount Insured.
5th. The amount insured in the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, is larger than that of any other Life Insurance Company in this country.—Amount insured January 1st 1865 $84,667,265 75. (See aforesaid Report for 1866.)

Largest Income.
6th. Its income for the past year (1865) was larger than that of any other American Life Insurance Company.

Profits.
7th. Its profits all belong to the assured. There are no Stockholders to take a share (often the Lion's share) of the profits.

Largest Dividends.
8th. The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, has declared the largest dividends of any Life Insurance Company in this country.

Dividends Paid Annually.
9th. Its dividends are declared and paid annually, BEGINNING ONE YEAR FROM THE DATE OF THE POLICY.

Dividends Progressive.
10th. Its dividends are distributed in the most equitable manner. The dividends of the Mutual Life are simply the restitution of surplus premiums, in the proportion overpaid by each person. They are comparatively moderate at the first but rapidly increase each year, until they exceed the annual premium paid, so that the policy holder has no more premiums to pay, and still the amount for which he is insured constantly increases. The dividend of Feb. 1, 1866, amounted to 80 per cent. on premiums paid by those who had been insured thirteen years, and to over 100 per cent, to all who had been insured over eighteen years.

Lower Rates.
11th. Its rates of premiums are generally lower than those of other Companies. This is especially true of policies issued on the two plans that are now becoming so popular in Life Insurance, viz the ten years and the endowment policies.

Twenty-four years of straightforward, honorable dealing, has made its name the synonym of strength among business men, and we refer to the above abstract, and Reasons, as conclusive proof that it is to-day the "Leading Life Insurance Company of the Continent," possessing
The Largest Assets,
The Largest Amount Insured,
The Largest Income, and

MATTERS IN MEXICO.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.

Parties desirous to convert 7-30 into 5-20 coupon bonds are reminded that all conversions on and after Dec. 1st will be made in 5-20s bearing interest from January 1st next and in transmitting or adjusting the 7-30s they will make up the interest according to that date.

The commercial agent at Gaboon in a letter to the department dated Sept. 25th, transmits a circular of the laws afflicting that part hitherto free. He says—

I learn from an English trader who yesterday had an interview with the Commandant Superior that export and import duties of four per cent and anchorage duty of one franc per ton, also pilotage and lighthouse fees are to be imposed.

The export duty as explained by the Commandant will apply to American produce brought into Gaboon from other ports in a ship coming here to complete her cargo, as many American vessels do.

Minister Bigelow in an official letter dated Paris Nov. 6th, says—

Colonel W A Coyle of the U. S. army and Judge Advocate of the State of Kentucky, who was shot through the lungs at the battle of Pea Ridge, in March 1862, died from the effects of his wounds in that city on the 3d in the 25th year of his age. He came to Paris two months previous for medical advice.

Commissioner Gen. Beckwith in a letter to the Secretary of the State, dated Nov. 7th, says he addressed an inquiry to the Imperial commission some time since concerning the legal right of foreigners holding patents for their inventions to exhibit and afterwards sell the foreign made products thus patented, in France without forfeiture of French patents.

The Imperial Commission referred the inquiry to the Minister of Commerce, and I am informed, at the opinion of the government such exhibitions and sales would not operate as a forfeiture of the patents, but the decision of questions touching such forfeiture belonged to the courts of law.

Mr Beckwith enclosed copies of the correspondence, of which he has had sent duplicates to Mr Derby at New York for the information of patentees whom it may concern.

The State Department is officially advised that vessels from New Orleans with clear bills of health, and no cases of sickness during the passage may enter any port of Cuba free of quarantine.

COLUMBIA, Nov. 27.

The Governor's message was laid before the Legislature to-day.

It takes a gloomy view of the present condition of affairs and attributes the depression of agriculture and business in the State to intolerance of her conquerors and urges that the whole population should be stimulated to work by letting them see that labor is honorable and idleness reprehensible.

The message is mainly devoted to State affairs, and says the result of the experiment of free labor has been highly encouraging under the circumstances. It concludes by referring to the constitutional amendment, which the Governor says neither the interest nor the honor of the State will allow her to ratify.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.

Arrangements are in progress for the establishment of a new news-room in this city, under the auspices of the New York Associated Press, at the suggestion of leading bankers, merchants and other business men.

The Union League Club will hold a meeting to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock, at the club-house in Union Square, No. 26 East 17th street, to receive Senator Wm. P. Fessenden.

The illicit distillery business appears to be carried on to a considerable extent, notwithstanding the numerous seizures. Preliminary examinations of a number of cases were made to-day, but were generally adjourned to some future time, and some were held to bail in large amounts.

Deputy Marshal Higgins seized 14 barrels of whiskey, on carts, last night, as they were passing through the streets. The name of the owner has not been ascertained.

The investigation of affairs connected with the Comptroller's office was continued this morning. Ex-Mayor Gunther was the first witness examined; he merely testified to his opposition to the war, and some routine details connected with the business of the county committee.

Stephen C. Haynes testified that the books had been altered in reference to the Blunt testimonial of $50,000, and made to agree with the voucher, dated 90 days after the date of the entry. These vouchers were used to cover the amount of the testimonial, $50,000, and their number was 175.

The examination was adjourned until Saturday.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 27.

Texas papers speak hopefully of trade and crops in that State.

Advices received to-day from the Rio Grande to the 23d inst., state that Escobedo had arrived before Matamoras and demanded its surrender. Canales offered to accede, but upon terms which Escobedo refused.

Cortinas had levied forced loans of $50,000 at Bagdad. Americans refused to contribute but he compelled them by threats of imprisonment to do so.

Carvajal denies that he is a supporter of Ortega.

Ortega was still at Brazos.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 27.

The Board of Directors of the New York Central Railroad was in session here to-day, but only business of a routine nature was transacted. The Board will meet again in Albany on Dec. 11, the day before the election for directors.

BOSTON, Nov. 27.

A suit for damages of $2000 against the Metropolitan Horse Railroad Company—the plaintiff in the case having had his leg broken on Sunday by the alleged carelessness of the conductor—was heard before the Superior Court today. The counsel for the defence took the novel ground that the plaintiff cannot recover damages, as he was doing an illegal act by travelling in the horse cars on the Sabbath. The Court reserved its opinion.

REMARKABLE SURGICAL OPERATION. On Saturday last Dr. Calvin Seavey of this city performed, with the happiest success, one of the most difficult and dangerous surgical operations ever recorded in surgical history. He was assisted by Drs. Weston, Coe and H. H. Seavey.

The operation was the removal of a scirrhous tumor from the side of the neck of Capt. John Standley of Tremont, Me. The diseased mass involved all the important tissues and blood vessels in its locality and adhering to them with the most rigid tenacity. To dissect this out from its deep and extensive attachments was no easy or enviable task. Yet it was completely and successfully accomplished and the poor sufferer will be again restored to health and the enjoyment of life.

After making known to the patient the dangers of so important an operation, he was made insensible by the influence of ether. The Doctor then made an incision through the integument and other tissues, extending from the angle of the lower jaw down to the collar bone, this being the length of the tumor. He next proceeded to dissect, slowly and carefully, the parts from their morbid attachments.

In the progress of the operation, it became necessary to remove a section of several inches of the external and internal jugular veins, so completely were they involved in the disease. The tumor pressed heavily on the internal jugular vein and carotid artery, and to these it firmly adhered. These vessels lay behind the tumor, and the vein, in its descent, seemed to enter it about midway, and was mostly lost in its substance, a mere trace of its track being found passing through it.

The vein above the tumor was greatly distended, owing to the obstruction from below; and that portion just below the tumor was much lessened in size, and had lost almost its entire function. The trunk of this vessel was tied above, and below the scirrhous mass, and some three inches of it was removed by the knife. So extensive was the dissection in the removal of this tumor, that the windpipe, the carotid artery, and even the neck bone were all laid bare. The trunk of the great artery after being denuded, was seen plainly by its pulsation performing its accustomed function, that of carrying the life blood to its destination. The time occupied in actual dissection necessary to complete the above operation was one hour and a half. Doctor Seavey desires us to tender his thanks to Drs. Weston and Coe for their most valuable services rendered him in the accomplishment of this intricate operation. —[Times.

RAID AT THE JAIL. Last evening, when the jailor, Mr. George W. Whitney, and his assistant, were proceeding to lock up the prisoners at the jail, eight or ten of the inmates threw open the door suddenly as it was being unlocked, and knocked the assistant down. Fortunately Mr. W. had his pistol at hand, and, before they could reach him, fired two shots, one of them severely wounding Thomas Sears, a New Brunswick man, in the shoulder. The powder quickly ended the raid and Whitney remained master of the field.

—An important advertisement to owners of hemlock lands is published in our paper to-day. The American Tanning Company, by a patent improvement, claim to have a process for extracting an imperishable article of tannin, by which the strength of ten cords of bark is concentrated in forty gallons of extract, worth in the Boston and other western markets sixty cents a gallon.

—Attention is called to the winter arrangement of the Lady Lang on the inside route. She will run twice a week, leaving Bangor on Monday and Thursday mornings (Winterport after the river closes), and return from Portland Tuesday and Friday evenings at 9 o'clock. The fare through to Boston is $4, if by steamer from Portland $4.50 if by rail from Portland. From Bangor to Portland $3.

PERSONAL. Hon. F. A. Pike was at the Exchange yesterday. He is on his way to Washington.

Hon. John H. Rice is in Georgia and will not probably return to Washington until the second or third day of Congress.

—A billiard match for $200 a side is to take place in Oldtown at Codman Hall on Monday evening, Dec. 3d. The contestants are two well-known experts from this city, viz:—R. T. Williams and G. E. Godfrey.—Mr. Williams won the first prize and Mr. Godfrey the second at the State Billiard Tournament held in Augusta a year or more since.—[Times.

A COINCIDENCE. In Board of Aldermen at its session, last week, Isaac W. Patten, Esq., and Capt. John Carr were drawn as Traverse Jurors. Both of those gentlemen were drawn as Traverse Jurors for the same term of the S. J. Court in 1858.—Jeffersonian.

—Mr. A. L. Spencer, teacher of dancing, having just returned from New York where he has got posted up on all the latest dances, commences new classes at his Academy on Wednesday, Dec. 5th. See advertisement.

KEROSENE OIL. E. D. Godfrey, Esq., advertises non-explosive Kerosene, an article just now much sought after. Try the various manufactures until you get the best, then stick to it.

—A fellow of East Pittston, named Shay, recently hired a team at Gardiner to go home as he said, and a boy was sent with him to return with the team; but after going a mile or two the boy was forcibly put out, and the driver started for down east, but was overhauled at Damariscotta, taken back, and sent to jail—as we learn by the Reporter. He was an old hand at such games—being then under bonds for a similar offense.

EVERY SATURDAY for last week contains a second of the interesting papers on "The Great Markets of Paris"; the continuation of Miss Thackeray's charming story of "The Village on the Cliff"; a paper from the Saturday Review on "Griffith Gaunt", and a variety of minor pieces, all of an attractive character.

—Portland is rising from her ashes with wonderful rapidity. The Price Current says 112 large and elegant stores and warehouses will be completed by the first of January next, or at least they will be "covered in" if not completed. The same paper thinks if the work is carried forward at the same rate, July 4, 1867, will see the last brick laid in repairing the wholesale destruction that swept the city July 4, 1866.

—The Argus speaks well of the Lisbon Paper Mill recently completed. They made their first shipment last week. The mill cost $75,000 and has machinery for making all kinds of paper. They are manufacturing printing paper for the present. It is owned by A. D. Brown, Esq., of Portland, B. B. Farnsworth, Esq., of Lisbon, and parties in Bangor.

—Among the parts performed at the exhibition of the Senior Class of Waterville College on the 23d inst., we notice the following:

Senior—"Progress through the Development of the Individual", H. W. Hale, Ellsworth. Juniors—English Version from the Greek of Plato, "Socrates after his condemnation", W. O Ayer, Jr., Bangor. French Version from the English of Webster, "Apostrophe to Washington", H. C. Hallowell, Bangor.

—A new Methodist church in Brunswick will be dedicated Wednesday, Dec. 5th, at 10 o'clock, A. M. A concert will be given in the church on the evening of the 4th by Prof. Tourzie's Quartette Club of Providence. There will be a levee the evening of the 5th.

—Six full rigged ships, each above 1000 tons measurement, have been built at Bath during the past summer. A 1200 ton ship is now worth, when new, about $100,000, and steamers of the same dimensions from 50 to 100 per cent. more.

—The Gardiner Reporter informs us that a barn belonging to Levi Bowie of that city, containing about ten tons of hay, took fire on Thursday night and was entirely consumed. It was supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

AGENT FOR AMERICAN LLOYDS. Attention is directed to the advertisement of Capt. Wm. Rogers of Bath, who has received an agency for American Lloyds, and is prepared to examine vessels in the process of erection in this State.

—The Press says that the Mechanic Association of Portland have voted to sell their fine building at the corner of Congress and Casco streets for $60,000. They have received an offer nearly up to that figure.

—The Gardiner Reporter thinks that $15.000 will be raised in that city towards a railroad to connect Wiscasset with the Portland & Kennebec line at that place. There are three routes proposed—to Bath, to Richmond, or to Gardiner. The Bath route is now being surveyed.

—The Machias Republican Dr. Harris, the President elect of Bowdoin College, is a native of East Machias. The Republican does not do full honor to that town. Two other candidates for the honor which is conferred on Dr. Harris are natives of Machias, now East Machias, namely, Prof. Roswell C Hitchcock and George S. Hillard, Esq.—[Jeffersonian.

SURMISE. We presume that the appointment of E. W. Flagg, Esq., of Bangor to the office of Inspector of Internal Revenue at that place, was tendered as a reward for his not voting with his party against Lincoln and Johnson in 1864.—[Portland Star.

—The Star says the masonry work on Hon. J. B. Brown's immense new sugar house on York street, was all completed last Wednesday, and the structure will be all "closed in" in a few days.

FEARFUL FALL. Saturday afternoon a Frenchman named Joseph Boivine, at work on the Canal Bank building, fell from the 3d story to the cellar. The distance was between 50 and 60 feet, yet strange to say the man escaped with a severe dislocation and small fracture of the ankle joint.—[Argus.

SOLON ROBINSON'S NOVEL. Solon Robinson, the veteran agricultural editor, has written a novel for the New York Weekly Tribune. The publication will commence on the 5th of December.

—The new novel of Mrs. Bella Z. Spencer, "Tried and True", is selling with unexpected rapidity, and the printers can hardly keep pace with the demand.

—The Argus says there were roses in bloom in the garden of Mr. Joseph Bryant of that city this week.

—The Aroostook Pioneer of Nov. 20th says—"We have had a week of good sleighing."

—A soldiers' monument, 24 feet in height, has been erected in the town of Wells.

If teeth could speak, they would often reproach their owners. "We cannot clean ourselves," would be the cry of many a neglected set, "and are going to ache and ruin, simply for the lack of a daily brushing with the Fragrant SOZODONT, the only known means of preserving us." But as the teeth cannot speak, the press must speak for them.

A NEW WAY TO PROTECT SAFES. A new English invention is described as a "safe-protector." It consists of a small apparatus, fitted in the upper corner of a safe and near the door, performing the functions of a gas-meter. An ordinary pipe affords a supply of gas which passes through the protector into a large iron pipe running from the safe to a lamp in the street. This iron pipe is an air-chamber, and serves to contain a gas-pipe, which is preserved by means of a drill-proof coil of steel wire. The lamp is intended to be of unusual appearance, and to give a very brilliant light. The mechanism of the protector is strong, but even a blow on the top of the safe will disconnect the supply of gas and put out the light. The same result would be effected by any tampering with the door or the pipes. In large cities, where safes are numerous within small areas, it is contemplated to employ a special watchman, who would, of course, immediately detect the absence of the external signal.—[N. Y. Post.

THE POACHER'S DOG. A dog between a bull dog and a greyhound, or between a greyhound and a terrier, makes the best "lurcher" or poacher's dog. You may generally know a poacher's dog when you see him. He looks very sleepy in the daytime, and seems stupid for want of a night's rest. Moreover, he seems slyer and subtler than other dogs. There is too much of the Jesuit about him to enable him to pass for an honest dog, and he sulkily does the bidding of his master with the air of one who must either do it or die. He is seldom in good spirits, and when on some rare occasion he wags his tail, he does it as if he were ashamed of himself. Poachers' dogs are employed, not for catching game, but for running it into the nets. They are taught to scour a field in the darkest nights, and work all the hares and rabbits towards the nets in the gateway, or on the cover sides. Sometimes they are put to watch their master's net, and will fly at any one who attempts to interfere with it. They never give mouth under any circumstances, being too well trained to fall into that error. A Shropshire farmer once told us, says the Agosy, some rather good stories about a poacher's dog.—He had been trained to run away from his master when called to approach him, and never to give mouth under any circumstances. Once upon a time this same poacher was brought before the magistrates, and the keeper tried to identify him by his dog.—The animal was brought into court as the supposed property of the poacher. This he stoutly denied. He was told to call the dog to him, which he did, and immediately the terrified dog scampered out of the court.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.

The President has been urged to complete his message in season to have advance copies sent by mail to the principal cities, and he has promised to do so unless he receives intimations of some important news connected with Mexican matters which he will think it necessary to allude to.

There are numerous speculations as to what he will have to say on reconstruction, different gentlemen who have conversed with him having left the White House with different impressions of his views, except that he has invariably opposed the Congressional proposed Constitutional Amendment.—[Boston Journal.

Important to Lumbermen
AND
Owners of Hemlock Lands.

THE AMERICAN PATENTED IMPROVEMENT TANNING COMPANY of New York own the exclusive right in the United States for the manufacture of an imperishable "EXTRACT" from Hemlock Bark for tanning purposes. The Bark Extract is now extensively used among Tanners, and the demand for it is rapidly increasing. It commands a ready sale in the Boston, New York and Philadelphia markets, at sixty cents per gallon. The appliances for manufacturing are simple and not expensive, costing but little more than the ordinary leaches used by Tanners. By this process two cords of bark may be reduced so as to concentrate the entire strength into forty gallons of Extract, without in the slightest degree injuring its tanning qualities, and as a cost not exceeding one dollar per cord. The saving in freight alone, between the transportation of the Extract and the Bark, will range from six to eight dollars per cord, so that any one who may get out but three hundred cords of Bark per year, may save from two thousand to twenty-five hundred dollars in the difference in freight.

The Company does not propose to sell Territorial rights, but will grant exclusive privilege to manufacture in certain localities, charging a small royalty per gallon on the amount manufactured.

The Company will send competent men to superintend the construction of works, where parties desire to enter into the business, and to instruct in the manufacture of the Extract.

As a guarantee of success to parties entering into this business, the Company will contract to take all the Extract manufactured under their process at fifty cents per gallon, delivered in Boston or New York.

Parties in New England desiring further information as to terms, &c., may call upon or address Mr. THOMAS W. JOHNSON, General Agent of the Company, at the American House in Boston, where models of the apparatus may be seen.

THE PORTLAND
KEROSENE OIL,
IS an entirely different article from the various refined Petroleums or Coal Oils daily sold as Kerosene. Its superiority consists in its great brilliancy of light; it does not smoke the glass or crust the wick; is free from offensive odor; entirely safe from explosion: and will last fifteen per cent. longer than any other oil.
It is put up in new heavy barrels, cemented inside, which entirely prevents leakage, and purchasers get the full number of gallons they pay for.
The subscribers offer this oil to the trade at the Factory price, delivered in Bangor.

THE YEAR'S CROWN.

Fain would I stay thee from thy fragrant tresses
To pluck fair queen the lastand sweetest rose!
Fain would I linger where this fine air blesses
The golden woodlands, lingr'ing while it blows
As loth to say farewell! Bright Autumn, fain
Would love delay thee, but the wish is vain!

Fly the swift hours which hurry off the swallows
And leave the robin to his roundelay;
Which drive the humming flies from where the sallows*
Wave o'er the river murmuring on its way;
Not fondest words may stay them, no regret
Brings back an hour from blissful suns once set!

Fair was Spring's morn and fair the eve of Summer,
The old world lilac perfume of young May,
Yet fairer now to us is each fresh comer,
Each hour that trips down Autumn's fruit hung way;
We grudge each day's still death, each leaf that falleth,
The twilight sigh that softly Winter calleth.

'Tis ever so with life; its loveliest season
Is just the one we hurry through to-day;
Regret for other days were surely treason
In men who soon farewell to all must say;
Use but to-day aright, it brings its weal,
Reck not of woes the future may reveal.

The truest peace earth holds for toil or trouble
Lies all around us—in the leafy glades
Red with the frost's first breath, in the yellow stubble
Touched with pink lustre when the short day fades;
The ruddy fruitage, each pale fleecy cloud
That wooes the West to find a gorgeous shroud.

Yet hast thou memories, Autumn, for the twilight
Of happy meetings, joyful smiles where corn
Waves on the hill-side, or the pencilled eyebright
Stirs in the breeze from purpled uplands borne;
Pensive we loiter by the well-known tryst,
And watch the golden fields by sunset kissed.

Here for each soul the Future takes a glory,
And Hope may dream of triumph yet to come;
Lovers here meet to tell "the old, old story,"
Draw tight the knots ne'er o'er by death undone;
Here, too, when day dies—dies, alas! too soon;—
More lovely floats above the Autumn moon.

Soft falls the mellow flood, its radiance streameth
O'er park and hamlet wrapped in deep repose;
Yonder the brook, a thread of silver gleameth,
The forest here in solemn splendor shows;
A land of silent glamour far and near
Owns Autumn queen of all the beauteous year!

*Sallows, willows. Vide Keats' poem, 'To Autumn.'

Going as a Substitute.

We believe the following was published in our paper some years ago; but it will be new to many, and is good enough for a second reading.

'Just my luck!' roared the Captain, dashing into the room like a young tornado, and banging the door behind him with a spiteful emphasis. 'Every officer absent on leave, and the Colonel don't see how he can dispense with my valuable services even for a day. Confound his politeness!'

'Now, then,' quoth I, soothingly, 'steady old fellow! it isn't worth while to excite yourself in such warm weather. Be calm.'

The Captain stamped his foot with despairing energy.

'Calm! It's very well for you bachelors to talk about being calm, but suppose you'd just got a telegram from your wife that she was coming on to join you, and requesting you to meet her at Philadelphia—and suppose you couldn't get leave of absence for so much as an hour? Then would you not see where the calmness came in? Poor dear Mary! She has the little ones with her, and she knows no more about travelling than a kitten. But I say, Harry!'

'Well.'

'Do be obliging for once—it would be such a favor—'

'What would?'

'Why go on and meet Mary and the little chicks for me.'

Kentwood Dale put his hands on my shoulder and looked imploringly at me. I opened my eyes deprecatingly.

'Nonsense Kent!'

'Do, Harry; you can't imagine the relief it will be to me! I'd do so much for you—I would, indeed! Just consider what a tight place it is for a fellow to be in.'

During all the twenty-three years of my life, I had never acquired the useful art of saying 'No,' and this Captain Dale knew full well.—It was rather an imbarrassing affair, this going to meet another man's wife and babies, but what was I to do? Kentwood begged so hard, and the case did seem rather a particular one.

'You'll go Harry?'

And I answered with an inward groan:

'I'll go Kent, to oblige you.'

Dale's face brightened—he clasped both my hands warmly.

'Depend upon it Harry, I won't forget your kindness very soon. I'll go and see about the leave of absence immediately, while you get ready. The six o'clock train will be in time—all you've got to do is to ask the conductor of the Philadelphia train, for a lady and children who came through from Boston. Poor Mary, she'll be frightened out of her senses in a strange place by herself.'

And Capt. Dale hurried away, leaving me to cogitate on the approaching pleasures of a night's journey on the railroad.

I had comfortably established myself on a snugly cushioned seat, where the swinging lamp would afford sufficient light to read the evening paper, and Kentwood Dale's beaming countenance was thrust in through the window by way of a good by.

'I'm so much obliged to you, old fellow!' he reiterated. 'You'll tell Mary just how it happened.'

'All right!' I responded.

The whistle gave its unearthly yell—the cars trembled as if a pulse of life was thrilling through their iron links, and we began to move. I was preparing to unfold my newspaper, when all of a sudden it dropped to the floor.

The prettiest creature I ever saw! Blue-eyed, with sunny hair, full of fleeting broken lights, and a mouth like a little red plum, a genuine blonde, in a trim travelling-dress, whose color—I suppose the milliners have some name or other for it—but I should call it the tint of a purple smoke-wreath. I took all these particulars at one glance while she stood in the aisle, apparently awaiting the motions of a stout young man who was reconnoitering a little in advance.

'All full, Evey,' he said despondingly.—Then perceiving the vacant spot by my side, his face lighted.

'If this seat isn't engaged, sir, my sister—'

His sister! What a lucky thing she wasn't his wife! I sprang up with instantaneous politeness.

'Certainly, sir—by all means.'

The stout young man wiped his forehead and retreated to the smoking-car, much relieved. Actually, the heartless wretch seemed delighted to get rid of his pretty companion and her travelling bags! but then brothers never appreciate the perfections of a sister!

How I wish I had devoted a little more attention to my toilet before starting. I was painfully conscious of my cravat being carelessly tied, and the top button being off my shirt-bosom, every time the blue eyes were timidly turned toward me. Hang that washwoman at the camp! did she have her garden walks with mother-of-pearl buttons? And besides, I was by no means certain that my moustache had been properly waxed, or my hair parted straight behind.

But I forgot these dreadful misgivings after a while, and edged gradually into conversation with my blue-eyed neighbor.

What did we talk about? Why, Byron and war, crochet work and the Sanitary Commission, of course. What else do young people converse on in these days? And she told me of the flannel wrappers she had made for the soldiers, and I related the particulars of the one battle I had been concerned in; and we laughed and joked and sentimentalized together, and in short, became excellent friends.

'Phil-a-del-phy!' bawled the conductor, breaking ruthlessly into the midst of a quotation that I was musically murmuring, and I started up as if I had been shot.

'My destination,' I said, regretfully.

'Mine, too,' said the young lady. 'Where can that careless Tom be?'

'Allow me,' quoth I, burdening myself with Miss Evey's multitudidous bags; 'I will just take you to the waiting room, where your brother will doubtless join you.

Didn't I feel proud just then, with the soft little hand on my arm, and the slight form clinging up close to me? I should think so!

I left her, unwillingly enough, in the door-way of the cheerfully lighted 'Ladies Room,' and sought the officials.

'Is the New York train in?'

'Yes sir; just this minute arrived.'

'Where's the conductor?'

'Well, if you'll wait a minute, he will be along.'

I stood back a few seconds, watching the tired-looking travellers pour from the cars, in sleepy confusion.

At length I caught sight of the conductor, carrying a crumpled baby in one hand, and a huge calico-covered bandbox in the other, while behind him came a ponderous female with freckled countenance, and bonnet crushed out of all semblance to shape.

'Hush up, Charles Augustus!' cried the woman to a wailing child three years old, whose face was scarcely discernible through the marks of tears and molasses candy. 'If you don't quit that hollerin', I'll skin ye! Mary Jane, come along, or I'll leave you in the cars, sure's I'm alive.'

'Conductor!' I ventured, boldly stemming this swarm of dirty children.

'Sir?'

'I came to meet a lady and children who traveled alone from Boston on this train to —'

'The very one you want, sir,' said the conductor, sliding the limp baby into my arms and dropping the bandbox with alacrity. 'Here's the gentleman, ma'am. I told you there wouldn't be any trouble about meeting him.'

And before I could open my lips to remonstrate, the ponderous woman had precipitated herself on me bodily, and was hugging my neck, with a succession of kisses that sounded like the report of a pocket-pistol.

'I knowed you'd come to meet me, Hiram,—I knowed you'd never desert your own Melviny, to say nothing of the children. Come here, Mary Jane and Charles Augustus, and kiss your own father! I declare, if them new regimentals don't make you look as fine as a fiddle! I dare say for it I should not have knowed ye, now you've got your hair and whiskers colored! You always was such a slim, genteel figure! But you'd ought to have sent me that bounty money, Hiram—I'll stick to that, if it was the last word I ever spoke.'

I looked around despairingly for some one to free me from this terrible bondage. Alas, unkind fate! there was my blue eyed compagnon du voyage convulsed with pretty malicious laughter at the plight I was in.

'I never imagined that you were a married man, sir,' said she, demurely. 'Upon my word, it is quite a privilege to witness this sweet little episode of domestic affection. Take care—you'll drop the baby if you hold it in that sort of a way.'

I set my teeth close together and strove to wrench myself away from the cotton gloved fingers of the woman who seemed so determined to appropriate me.

'Let go of my cravat, madam!' I said, sharply, for she was clinging to me as the veritable Old Man of the Sea might have clung to Sinbad. 'I am entirely at a loss to imagine what you mean by this singular conduct. My name is not Hiram—I am not married—and never set eyes on you before to-night. Let go' I say, and take your baby.'

The woman recoiled a step or two, and gazed full in my face for the first time, with a cry like a baffled tigress.

'Land o' Goshen!' she shrieked! 'it isn't Hiram, after all—and the good-for-nothing, shiftless, mean-spirited cur aint here to look after his own wife and children. I do say for't,' she articulated, fiercely clenching her muscular fist, 'I knowed Hiram Peck was meaner'n a muscle shell, but I didn't s'pose he was mean enough to leave me in the lurch this way.'

She snatched the baby, broke away from me, and rushed impetuously toward the conductor, whose distant lantern glanced among the platform beyond.

'Conductor! I say, conductor! we've woke the wrong passenger. That ere feller aint Hiram Peck no more'n you be, and what on airth be I goin' to do?

All this time my blue eyed divinity had been smiling at my dilemma in the most heartless manner; and I was glad to make a diversion by pouncing upon the conductor and blowing him up for his absurd mistake. He apologized, with a satirical grin on his face.

'And now, sir,' he added, suddenly resuming the brisk business-like manner of every day life, 'I think the right lady is in the waiting room—she came on to meet Captain Dale.'

'That's the name' I answered, promptly. A slender, lady-like thing was anxiously waiting in the ladies department, with a stout Irish nurse and two delicate children of two and three years of age. She sprang forward with a bright agitated face, as she caught a glimpse of my undress uniform and gilt buttons.

'Kentwood!'

And then she drew back disappointed and confused.

'Not exactly Kentwood, madam,' I answered, but his substitute.'

And then, according to my promise, I explained the circumstances of the case, giving a highly colored account of my adventures, which made Mrs. Dale laugh heartily.

'And now, I added, 'if I get a carriage and we make pretty good speed, we shall reach Washington depot in time for the train.'

Kentwood Dale was eagerly watching for me as the carriage drove into camp in the brilliant August sunshine of the next morning.

'I am so much obliged to you Harry,' he reiterated, after he had joyously welcomed the new comers.

'So you ought to be,' said I, with a groan. "It's the last expedition of the kind I shall undertake at present.'

I have never seen the blue eyed syren since, nor, to say the truth, do I wish to. That merciless giggling of hers, cured me pretty effectually of the brief fever of love that was beginning to throb within me.

Girls, do you want a piece of good advice, from real life? Well, here it is. When you see a young fellow in a ridiculous plight, don't laugh at him—sympathise rather with his tribulation. Laughter is sure to frighten Cup & fluttering wings away—at least, such is my experience.

Concerning the votes of the ladies, James Freeman Clark said:—"Persons no doubt imagine that some fatal overturn of all established things would result from woman's voting, but if all women over 21, able to read and write, were to be allowed to vote to-morrow, the change would scarcely attract attention, and in a year or two people would forget they had not always voted. The difference would only finally appear in the whole subject of politics being lifted to a higher plane. It is not good for man to be alone at the polls. That which printing, art, religion have done in softening manner, and expelling ferocity from human affairs would be continued by putting the mind and heart of woman in relationship with the State."

The New Bedford Mercury tells the following:

A friend of ours who has a taste for objects of virtu, and for a good story, too, on a recent visit to a celebrated jewelry store in New York, noticed a small but exquisitely finished bronze—a dog's head. He asked the price, and the clerk replied "three fifty" Cheap enough, I'll take it." Upon this the obliging clerk re-examined the tag with the price mark, and said, "I am mistaken; it is not so much as I named. You may have it for two hundred dollars." Our friend, not being able to see how two hundred dollars was less than $3, 50 left the dog on the store.

A BIT OF LONDON GOSSIP The London correspondent of the New York World writes:

It is not often that I have any scandal for you, but here is a bit about a certain Mrs. N—, whom you may see daily driving through the streets at a furious pace, with her meek husband at her side, his face bearing the impress of fear in every feature. He would remind you of Mr.—somebody's picture of despair, if the ludicrous were not blended so strongly with affright. Mrs. N—, however is a stunner—a little bit many, but a magnificent creature, and drives her phaeton well, though she does hold her reins a little too tightly, perhaps. Imagine, then, if you can, her indignation when she heard for the first time that Mr. N—had accepted an invitation to sup at Brown's a jolly fellow of his bachelor days:

"Only ourselves, you know, and Jones and Robinsons," had said Brown, and Mr. N—accepted, not without misgivings, however for he knew what he would have to encounter when he communicated his rash promise to Mrs. N—. As fate would have it his wife looked awfully splendid and fierce that night. Between love and fear his tongue refused to speak the words. He would wait till next morning—there was no hurry. In a word he did not tell her at all, and it was by the merest chance, of course, that she heard of it.

And so, sir, I hear that you were going to supper with that horribible man, Mr. Brown, to morrow?

I certainly am invited, my dear.

And what do you propose doing, Mr. N—?

To accept the invitation, of course, my dear.

Then of course, you expect me to accompany you?

To a bachelor's supper party, my dear? Impossible.

Then you don't go, that is all, my dear,

And Mrs. N——closed her mouth and spoke no more that evening. Mr. N—— resolved he would be master this time, and in silence made his plans. The day came. No more had been said on either side—nothing relative to the subject was said now. Yet, I am reluctantly compelled to record the fact, that Mr. Brown and his friends were disappointed of their friend N——s, company that night.

That she wouldn't let him come, said one.

I only saw him this morning, said Brown, and he promised to be here.

What a lark, if we called on him.

Let us, say all.

And they did so.

A thundering knock, N——s' street door was opened to Brown, Jones, and Robinson, and they were shown into the dining room where Mr. and Mrs. N——sat immovable in their chairs—fast asleep.

They had administered a strong opiate to each other, unawares. The wife to keep the husband at home—the husband to quiet the wife. A divorce is pending.

THE

BEST COOKING STOVE,

IN THE MARKET.

"PEERLESS," FOR COAL OR WOOD.

THE "PEERLESS" has all the advantages of the popular stoves in use, together with such NEW FEATURES as justify the manufacturers in calling it the BEST COOKING STOVE in the market.

It is the "PEERLESS," because it is superior to all other Cooking Stoves in Economy, Simplicity, Cleanliness, Baking, Roasting and Beauty.

1st, ECONOMY. A patented method of heating the air and conveying it through the oven, saves from twenty to thirty per cent. of fuel.

2d, SIMPLICITY. It is easily managed. The fire can be perfectly controlled, and kept through an entire season without rekindling.

3d, CLEANLINESS. No dust escapes while shaking or dumping the grate.

4th, BAKING. Its large oven, wherein all parts are of equal temperature, bakes as evenly as a brick oven, and that without turning the article. It bakes quickly. It will bake upon the oven rack quickly, evenly and well at the same time the oven bottom is fully employed in baking or roasting.

5th, ROASTING. A current of hot air constantly passing through the oven, so thoroughly ventilates it, that it roasts as well as a tin kitchen.

6th, BEAUTY. Made of the best iron, it will not crack. Well mounted, artistically designed and smoothly cast, it is the most beautiful as well as the most serviceable stove in the market.

Each stove is WARRANTED to be and to do all that is claimed for it.

FELLOWS' ORIGINAL

WORM LOZENGES.

WE can with confidence point to FELLOWS' WORM LOZENGES as the most perfect remedy for those troublesome pests,

INTESTINAL WORMS.

After years of careful experiment, success has crowned our efforts, and we now offer to the world a confection without a single fault, being safe, convenient, effectual and pleasant. No injurious result can occur, let them be used in whatever quantity. Not a particle of calomel enters their composition. They may be used without further preparation, and at any time. Children will eagerly devour all you give them, and ask for more. They never fail in expelling Worms from their dwelling-place, and they will always strengthen the weak and emaciated, even when he is not afflicted with worms.

Various remedies have, from time to time, been recommended, such as calomel, oil of wormseed, turpentine, &c., producing dangerous and sometimes fatal consequences. After much research, study and experiments, embracing several years, the proprietors of FELLOWS' WORM LOZENGES have succeeded in producing this remedy, free from all objections, and positively safe, pleasant and effectual. They do not kill the worms, but act by making their dwelling-place disagreeable to them. In order to assure consumers of the genuineness of these Lozenges, the analysis of DR. A. A. HAYES, State Assayer, is annexed:—

"I have analyzed the WORM LOZENGES prepared by Messrs FELLOWS & CO., and find that they are free from mercury and other metalic or mineral matter. These Lozenges are skilfully compounded, pleasant to the taste, safe, yet sure and effectual in their action. Respectfully, A. A. HAYES, M. D. Assayer to the State of Mass."

Special Notice

To Soldiers and Seamen!!

The Law Has Passed!

Bounties Equalized.

Justice Done the Early Soldiers and Seamen of the War, their Widows and Heirs.

NOTICE has been sent me from Washington, that the Law equalizing the bounty to Soldiers and Seaman was passed Saturday last, July 28th, by Congress.

I am now authorized and prepared to collect this Bounty for every Soldier and Seaman entitled, also for their Widows and Heirs.

Application made personally at my office, or by mail,—the discharge of the Soldier or Seaman should be handed in—as it must be forwarded with the application.

All applications must be made signed, witnessed and sworn to, AFTER THE PASSAGE OF THIS LAW. Many soldiers have been induced to sign papers before the law passed. This practice is irregular, fraudulent and void, and papers in all such cases must be made over.

NICHOLS HOUSE.

The undersigned having leased, for a long term, and thoroughly renovated and refitted the Nichols Hotel, late "Daniel House," in Bangor, has this day re-opened the same to the public accommodation.

This Hotel is centrally located, and in close proximity with the Boats and Cars.

The Proprietor has had a long experience in the "Parker House," at East Corinna, and the "Shaw House," of Newport, and flatters himself that to all patrons he will furnish an agreeable and comfortable home. Every effort and expense will be used to make this House as popular and attractive as any in this section of the State.

Livery Stable connected with the House.

Coaches in readiness for any [illegible] hours.

Stages leave this House daily for all parts of the country.

Lemuel Nichols.

Bangor, Feb. 23, 1866 (Times)

SNELL HOUSE.

The Subscriber has purchased the [illegible] House, and proposes to keep a

"First Class Hotel."

He has repaired the House, put down new carpets, made additions to the furniture, &c. He has also secured the services of M. B. [illegible] as Clerk. And by the experience he has, he flatters himself that he can suit the people of Aroostook—or any other man.
